

Making Valuing People Now Happen For Everyone

11th October 2010

Venue: Suite 2, Waterside, St. James Court West, Accrington BB5 1NA

Valuing People Now: a new three year strategy for people with learning disabilities

Making it happen for everyone

Overview

This important regional event will give delegates the chance to discover how the policies that will steer learning disability work for the next two years can be made to improve services for people from Black and ethnic minority communities.

Valuing People Now acknowledges that this group of people still have largely unmet needs, saying, "people with learning disabilities from black and minority ethnic groups and newly arrived communities and their families often face what is called 'double discrimination'. They experience insufficient and inappropriate services."

The National Advisory Group for Learning Disability and Ethnicity is working closely with the Office of the National Director and has recognised the importance of the regions in developing and delivering best outcomes for people from BME communities.

By the end of the day

Delegates will have looked at each aspect of Valuing People Now and will have heard from experts on national delivery. They will have an understanding of the situation nationally and locally and have had an opportunity to make an action plan for each topic.
